DIMINUTIVE DRAMAS ARE BIG SUCCESS

Alumnae Society Give
Amusing Plays

TO BE REPEATED

Prominent Members of Faculty and Graduates Perform

The large audience which filled the Convocation Hall at R. V. C. on Saturday evening was delighted with the presentation of "Diminutive Dramas" by the McGill Alumnae Society. Owing to the great success of these plays in previous years the supply of tickets was soon exhausted, and it was decided to give those who were disappointed an opportunity of seeing the plays at a second performance which is to be given next Saturday evening.

Four of the five plays were written by members of the McGill staff, three being by Dr. Leacock and one by Professor Carless, who also took part in one of the plays. The cast was composed entirely of members of the faculty and McGill Graduates, and music was supplied during the intervals by the McGill Mandolin Club. In spite of the fact that the talent of the evening was drawn so exclusively from university circles there was a notable absence of the traditional academic gravity from the programme.

The subject dealt with in the plays were varied, and the settings ranged from an imposing scene in the furnace room of the University Library in the year 1914 to a hut in the wastes of Russia in the dear old days when Russia made one thing of freedom and space and Siberia gave one a thrill or a chill. The acting was all of an excellent character, and it is impossible to single out any performers for special mention.

"Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell, the first play on the programme, deals with a young woman, Henrietta Brewster, who is an ardent disciple of Freud and who tries to convert her sister Mabel and her very skeptical husband Stephen to her beliefs. When Stephen is finally "psyched" and Dr. (Continued on Page Four)

FREE SMOKES

Important Questions to be Discussed at Students' Society

On Tuesday evening there will be a smoker at the Union to enable the candidates for the offices of President of the Students' Council, and of President, Vice-president and Secretary of the Union to present their platforms and for the presentation by Sir Arthur Currie of athletic insignia won this season. Previous to the smoker there will be a meeting of the Students' Society to discuss various matters of importance which have come up during the present year.

The proposed levy of five dollars which if passed, will give rosters the privilege of all matches under the direction of the Athletic board will be discussed. The pros and cons of this scheme have been argued already from various angles in the correspondence columns of the Daily and on Tuesday there are sure to be interesting aspects of this subject brought before this meeting.

The question of a Commerce representative on this Students' Council is a question of great interest to men in Commerce and in Arts. The School of Commerce although being nominally in the Faculty of Arts supports its own Undergraduate Society which is entirely separate from the Arts' Undergraduate Society. Smaller Undergraduate Societies than the Commercial Society have faculty representatives on the Students' Council. The present situation is very unsatisfactory to the men both of Commerce and of Arts as was recently pointed out in the correspondence columns of the Daily by James Parkham President of the Commercial Society. The present conditions lead to bloc voting and the man from the section with the greatest number of voters usually (Continued on Page Four)

GLEE CLUB CONCERT TO BE TO-NIGHT

Programme Includes Songs, Violin Solo and String Quartet

830 AT R.V.C.

Sir Henry Newbolt's "Songs of the Fleet" Feature Work

The McGill Glee Club gives its final concert of the season 1923-1924 this evening at 8.30 o'clock in the convocation hall of the Royal Victoria College. The annual programmes rendered by the club are musical treats, and musicians in the city as well as many music lovers have commented very favorably on its renditions. The Glee Club is by far the most important musical organization in the university, and as such its efforts are deserving of the best support the undergraduates can give it. Mr. Harold E. Key has been conductor of the club since its foundation three years ago, and to his untiring endeavor no small part of (Continued on Page 2).

E. C. AMARON INJURED.

E. C. Amaron, President of the Students' Council, was admitted to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Ward F, yesterday afternoon. It will be remembered that he sustained an injury to his leg while on the American basketball tour during the Christmas vacation. He wore a plaster of Paris cast for over a month, and had only recently dispensed with this. Yesterday morning, when hurrying for a street car, "Am." slipped and sustained a recurrence of his injury. When the "Daily" called on him last night he was resting comfortably. We wish him a speedy recovery.

ADDRESS TO-NIGHT BY DR. CHIPMAN

Crocker's Musicians Will Entertain the Assembly

Dr. W. W. Chipman, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, will address the Med. Undergraduate Society tonight in the assembly hall of the New Med. at 8 p.m. The subject of the address will be "Some of the Problems of Medical Practice." The speaker is well known for his pleasant humor and the sound advice and instruction which he imparts to his students, who greet him each day at 8.30 a.m. Dr. Chipman's addresses are as his lectures, of the highest calibre.

The subject is quite fitting to the season, when many of our young doctors will close the threshold into a cold, exhilarating world. The meeting will open at 8.00 p.m. when Willard Crocker will entertain the wise early birds with a few choice selections accompanied by his accomplished musicians. The regular meeting will open at 8.30 p.m.

There was considerable confusion as to which Medical Society would occupy the Assembly Hall to-night, but the Alpha Omega Alpha have kindly consented to postpone their meeting till the 24th, when Dr. Shepherd will speak.

Refreshments of the choicest variety will be dispensed at the close of the meeting.

"Er—what's this?" asked the museum visitor, pausing before a glass case.

"That," said the guide, "is the mummy of a college man who was found to be unmarried a year after his graduation."

H-v-y (criticizing an essay)—"In these essays I want Quality rather than quantity."

F-r-d. H-w-s—"What's wrong with the quality of mine?"

H-v-y—"There isn't any."

MONTREAL, MONDAY, MARCH 10, 1924.

THE GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

For consistent devotion, for steady practice and for ultimate accomplishment, there is no single group of men at McGill which can claim superiority over the Glee Club. And we even doubt the existence of an organization which would advance a claim of equality. The glee singers may work slowly and patiently -- we dare not say they work silently--but they never fail to arrive at their objective, and though the Club may not be aged and hoary, yet it has a record which might well be envied.

And to-night, for the second time since the opening of the college year, the Glee Club will present a carefully selected and prepared programme for the approval of the undergraduates and of the musically inclined portion of Montreal's populace. There is really no need to dilate on the successes of the Club in the past, for on every occasion the critics have been warm in praise and commendation. True, the Club has been active only over a short period of time during recent years, but even in this brief space much has been done, both toward perfecting the work of the members and of helping in the efforts to increase the average undergraduate's appreciation of music. In fact, it can be said that this organization of singers has accomplished the most for the cause of the musical art among the students. Part singing, when it is well done, possesses a rare charm and beauty, and has a strong appeal to the artistic mind. It contains force and vigour, mingled with delicate shades of tone, and may range from the might of fury to all the delicacy of faint echoes. And the members of the McGill Club know how to sing well. They produce the best results, but in order to do so they have had to devote a great deal of time in practice and in preparation.

At the first concert of the season there was not even a fair representation of undergraduates in attendance. To-night's appearance is the final one of the year, and the members are hoping that the hall in the Royal Victoria College will be filled. We can honestly recommend this evening's performance--it will probably be the best ever given by the Club--and we hope that this musical event will receive all the support of which it is worthy.

CONDENSED COMMENT.

The present week is to be featured by two events of the utmost importance, the first being the special meeting of the Students' Society to-morrow evening, and the second the Alma Mater dance on Friday. The first event, which is taking the form of a smoker, calls for the consideration of every member of the undergraduate body, as it will be of signal significance in McGill's political world. Not only will the candidates in the forthcoming contests be heard on the eve of elections, but questions of great import will be brought up for discussion. The Alma Mater dance, although a social function, is the last event of this nature for the session, and is indicative of the passing of time and the approach of examinations. It should be largely attended, for, with rare decorations and the best music, it will be a unique conclusion to the season.

The remarkable success of the Diminutive Dramas makes us wonder more than ever when a Players' Club will exist again on the campus. Has that love of plays, with the great pleasure derived from their presentation, disappeared from among the ranks of the undergraduates, or is it merely there buried beneath the surface, but waiting to be resurrected by one who is interested, by one who has the ability combined with the earnest desire to restore the drama at McGill?

Our correspondents are reminded that their letters will not be published unless the rules of the column are adhered to. These include the unwritten law that writing must be on one side of the paper only.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT TO BE TO-NIGHT

The success of the club has been due. Dr. Perrin is honorary president of the chorus which is under the patronage of Sir Arthur Currie. Tickets for this evening's concert may be obtained from any member of the Glee Club from the Union porter, and at the R. V. C. the programme is as follows:--

1. "Hail Alma Mater,"
2. (a) Songs "Hey Nonney No" -- Armstrong-Gibbs, (b) "O Sweet Delight" Granville Bantock
3. (a) "Lonely Shepherd" Speaight, (b) Conzonetta Mendelssohn String Quartet
4. (a) Songs "Cargoes" Balfour Gardner, (b) We Soldiers Three Julius Harrison
5. (a) "Peter The Cat" Paul Eastman Glee Club, (b) Violin "Prize song from Meister Singers" Gardner, R. Sherrard
6. Folk Songs

- (a) "Window Machine" F. R. Lovatt, (b) "Lock Eleven Lone Lament" Hugh S. Robertson,
 - (c) "Ellen McJones" Paul Edmond
 7. String Quartet "Finle Allegro" from quartet in G. Major-Mozart,
 8. Songs of the Fleet by Sir Henry Newbolt set to music by C. V. Stanford.
 - God Save The King
- The Glee Club members have put a great deal of time and energy on their selections and the conductor has expressed his satisfaction as to the tone and feeling with which their songs will be rendered. The members of the Quartet include Eddie Sherrard 1st Violin, Leonard Hovey-2nd Violin, H. Bryson Viola and Howard Elliot Cello.
- The feature work of the evening will of course be the "Songs of the Fleet," Sir Henry Newbolt, famous British poet and patriot has here written a set of five short poems or ballads of the British navy, and a most admirable musical setting has

McGILL TO HEAR FAMOUS HISTORIAN

George Macaulay Trevelyan, Great Nephew of Lord Macaulay

NEXT WEEK

Visit Arranged by Prof. Basil Williams

The great-nephew of Thomas Babington, Lord Macaulay, and himself one of the most eminent of present day English historians, will address the students of McGill and the public of Montreal next week. George Macaulay Trevelyan, C. B. E., M. A. (Trinity College, Cambridge), D. Litt. (Durham) will be in this city on March 17th and 18th the guest of his friends, Professor and Mrs. Basil Williams. He has arranged for a public meeting to be held in the Royal Victoria College on Monday afternoon next, March 17th, at five o'clock, when Dr. Trevelyan will deliver an address entitled, "History and Literature." On the following day he will speak to the Women's Canadian Club on the Italian National Movement of which he is one of the foremost authorities. A reception and dinner are being arranged in his honor. Dr. Trevelyan holds the Lowell Lectureship at Harvard this year, a post of great distinction.

George Macaulay Trevelyan is the third son of the Right Hon. Sir George Otto Trevelyan, Bart. P. C., O. M., LL.D., D. C. L., British statesman and historian, author of "The Life and Letters of Lord Macaulay," "The American Revolution" (four volumes) and other works. Sir George Otto was Chief Secretary for Ireland and Secretary for Scotland and is now a venerable and respected figure in his eighty-seventh year. His mother was a daughter of Zachary Macaulay, and his sister of the celebrated Lord Macaulay. Dr. G. M. Trevelyan's eldest brother is the Hon. Charles P. Trevelyan, P. C., Minister of Education in Ramsay MacDonald's cabinet. Another brother is Robert or "Bob" Trevelyan, a poet. Dr. Trevelyan was born in 1876 and educated at Harrow and at Trinity College, Cambridge. In addition to being an author and lecturer of merit he is a fellow of the British Academy, and a former Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. He married a daughter of Thomas Humphrey Ward, well-known man of letters, and of the late Mrs. Ward, the novelist. He is connected with other notable personages, among them being Thomas Arnold of Rugby, great-grandfather of his wife and Matthew Arnold, famous critic and poet, Mrs. Trevelyan's great uncle.

Dr. George Macaulay Trevelyan is perhaps best known by his profound knowledge of the Italian Movement on which subject his books are recognized authorities. His three volumes on Garibaldi are classics. He also wrote "Scenes from Italy's War," shortly after he had served on the Italian front in the Great War. His latest book concerns Manin and the Venetian Republic. For his services to the Italian cause in the late war, Dr. Trevelyan was awarded the Silver Medal for Valour, and the rank of Chevalier of the Order of St. Michael and St. Lazarus. His other excellent works include, "England in the Age of Wycliffe," "England under the Stuarts," "The Poetry and Philosophy of George Meredith," "The Life of John Bright," "Recreations of an Historian," "Lord Grey and the Reform Bill," "Clio and other Essays," and his brilliant "British History in the Nineteenth Century," which is, in addition to other of his writings, read by McGill history students.

Professor Williams is looking forward to greeting his old friend and expresses the hope that students will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to hear one who has such an enviable tradition of greatness in his family, and is himself one of the most noted English historians of the day.

BEAUTIFUL DAMSEL'S UNFORTUNATE PLIGHT

On Saturday morning, a comedy, which nearly became a tragedy, was enacted on the campus. It seems that a young lady of remarkable beauty was in the hollow before the Arts Building. Her sleight was running well, and an admiring audience of ladies and gentlemen of her own age stood around the slopes of the hill watching her.

But the old proverb about pride did not fail. The runners of the sleigh struck the soft slush around the pond of snow-water, and the daring rider was hurled forward in the centre of the miniature lake. Here she was found, weeping bitterly, with the icy water eddying around her knees. Several members of the R. V. C., anxious to win a life-saving medal, approached to the very edge of the pond, but did not dare to venture to the rescue. They did, however, make enticing sounds in the hopes of persuading the poor victim to walk shore-wards.

The latter, quite naturally, became hysterical, beautiful as every true maid should do, she stood with an admiring circle of acquaintances listening to her yells. The R. V. C. contingent became desperate, and one brave spirit was about to sacrifice her garters, where a rescuer appeared. This hero was one of the men digging the ditches on the campus. With the utmost disregard to the water wetting his rubber boots, he advanced to the pathetic, little figure, and carried her, screams and all, to the road.

Here the R. V. C. again became prominent, seven co-eds rushed forward, and attempted to comfort the weeping Damsel, as her name was discovered to be. She refused all consolation, however, and with an occasional admiring glance at her soaked boots, continued her lady like behaviour.

MOCK PARLIAMENT

As the time for the opening of the final session of the Mock Parliament draws near, interest is roused to a fever heat and the electorate, disheartened by the efforts of the late Liberal-Labour coalition acting in the position but not the capacity of government, looks forward with keen anticipation to the salutary measures which will be brought down by the Reform Party headed by the new Prime Minister, the Hon. H. O'Hagan. The bill to be introduced will be one nation wide in its scope and far reaching in its effect; it is designed to lighten the load of the Canadian citizen and to develop the resources and manufactures of this country; it will have a lasting effect on the country and the present government will stand or fall, not on a paltry question of Russian recognition, but on a question of national policy which will make for the prosperity of the Dominion and the unity of the Empire. The bill will be piloted by the keenest brains of the cabinet and deserves the careful study by every sane-thinking elector.

The cabinet of the Reform Government is as follows:

Prime Minister and Pres. of the Council, the Hon. H. O'Hagan.
Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, J. G. Glasco.
Minister of Finance, S. Pierce.
Minister of Trade and Commerce, J. M. Packham.
Minister of Public Works, G. Nairn.
Minister of Interior, C. Cope.
Minister of Agriculture, T. F. Mitchell.
Minister of Labour, P. F. Osler.
Minister of Immigration and Colonization, F. Portall.
Minister of Naval Services, George Grimson.
Minister of Marine and Fisheries, R. A. H. MacKeen.
Minister of Railways and Canals, P. Terroux.
Minister of Militia and Defense, J. C. Quinlan.

JUNIORS TO MEET M.A.A.A. HOCKEYISTS

City Championship at Stake, and Right to Meet O.H.A. Champs in Semi-Finals

TONIGHT AT 9 P.M.

Loyola Rink in Wet Shape For Game

The McGill Junior hockey team will enter the first of the play off series tonight when the line up against the M.A.A.A. juniors the winners of Section A.

These will be two games, the total goal score to count. The games will be played at the Loyola rink at 9 p.m. and despite the weather the ice is being kept in fair condition but water is inevitable.

To-night's game should be very good. If weather conditions permit, as both teams are in the best condition. The McGill team are quite confident of winning the championship but it will be their toughest game of the season.

The winners will go to Toronto to play the Owen Sound juniors on Friday as this team is the champion of the O. H. A.

The M.A.A.A. have a strong team, having won the title of Section A, defeating the St. Patricks on Saturday. Both teams will be at full strength, none of the players being on the sick list.

The juniors hockey squad is one of the few teams that are a credit to McGill, and is entitled to the support of the entire student body, and if the game is played a large attendance is expected. The McGill team will be composed of, Abbott, Mickles, Evelyn, Roncetti, McGerrigle, Johnson, Boor, Gordon, MacDonald, Borja, standing the poor victim to walk shore-wards.

The latter, quite naturally, became hysterical, beautiful as every true maid should do, she stood with an admiring circle of acquaintances listening to her yells. The R. V. C. contingent became desperate, and one brave spirit was about to sacrifice her garters, where a rescuer appeared. This hero was one of the men digging the ditches on the campus. With the utmost disregard to the water wetting his rubber boots, he advanced to the pathetic, little figure, and carried her, screams and all, to the road.

Here the R. V. C. again became prominent, seven co-eds rushed forward, and attempted to comfort the weeping Damsel, as her name was discovered to be. She refused all consolation, however, and with an occasional admiring glance at her soaked boots, continued her lady like behaviour.

McGILL'S ATHLETIC RECORD

The various sports at McGill are divided into two classifications, major and minor; and the same may be said of athletic activities at the sister universities also. However, there are differences in the grades the various universities grant to sports. Here at McGill there are only three major activities, namely, rugby football, hockey and track work. To recognized members of the senior teams in these three branches of athletics, this university grants first grade "M's," and to the spares second grade block letters. For all other activities plain "M's" are granted only. Thus a definite demarcation is maintained between major and minor athletics. There has been discussion upon the advisability of including basketball among the majors, as particularly in the States this game has attained considerable importance, but it has been felt that up to this time its importance here has not warranted major status.

TRACK

If McGill has trailed Toronto in both hockey and rugby accomplishments, certainly her supremacy on the track never has been questioned. In this field of athletics the issue has always been fought out between Varsity and Old McGill, as Queens never has excelled in track work, and though the Tri-colour has placed men, a championship has not rewarded their efforts. Returned fourteen times as Intercollegiate Track Champions McGill has a commanding lead over Toronto with her six victories. Apparently track achievement runs continuously over a period of some years. In the first eight years that this contest was held, McGill won seven times. In the following six years, Toronto won five times. Since the war, McGill has had an unbroken string of five championships. In 1913 Toronto won the meet, but was disqualified; and upon McGill's refusal to accept the championship, no award was made for that year.

When the list of records established in the various events is read over, a curious fact becomes apparent. Though McGill has won championships, Toronto has established records. The year 1909 was the third successive year in which Varsity won the championship, and in that year the Blue and White runners and field men set up a series of records. Several more were established in 1912 and 1913, but the years were not as outstanding as 1909 had been. In 1922 McGill men set new marks, but were not able to equal Toronto's total. The outstanding feature of the track team work has been that while Varsity produced some star men, McGill has turned out with splendid regularity a well-balanced, well-trained squad, which has won championships by dependable and sound effort.

Track competition began just one year after Intercollegiate rugby became a fact, and three years before the advent of hockey. The championships have been awarded as follows:—

1899—McGill.
1900—McGill.
1901—McGill.
1902—McGill.
1903—Toronto.
1904—McGill.

BLUE AND WHITE GYMNASTS WIN LAST INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETIC EVENT OF YEAR

Delahay, of McGill, Gains Individual Championship—Varsity Secures Parallel Bars and Horse Events—High Bar and Mats go to McGill—Parker, Mix and Chorlosky Were Stars of University of Toronto Team—M. S. P. E. Put on Novel Stunts and Dances—Large and Enthusiastic Crowd Witnessed Hotly Contested Meet.

On Saturday night at Central Y. M. C. A., the McGill Gymnastic team was forced to take the short end of the total score in the Annual Intercollegiate Athletic Competition against Toronto. The competition consisted of performances on four pieces of apparatus, the Horizontal Bar, Parallel Bars, Side Horse, and Mats. Of these four events, McGill proved their superiority on the Horizontal Bar and Mats, but in the other departments the Blue and White gymnasts were able to pile up enough points to bring their total score to a lead 26 points over that of their opponents.

This is the fourth intercollegiate meet of its kind that has been held and every year increasing interest is being shown in this department of athletic activity. In 1922 the fixture was held in Montreal and took the form of one of the finest exhibitions of gymnastic skill ever witnessed in the city. In the end McGill won by the close margin of four points. Last night's fixture was equally good and on the whole it might be said that more difficult stunts were performed than on the former occasion.

With Saturday's competition, the laurels go back to the Queen City after being held by the McGill gymnasts for two consecutive years. The fact that each college has won the honours on two occasions shows that keen competition has characterized the event ever since its inauguration four years ago.

In former years there have been certain movements set by the officers of the respective gymnastic clubs of McGill and Toronto. This year, however, it was agreed that the set movements would be established and the entire meet would take the form of Voluntary performances. This gives each man a better opportunity of showing what he can do on the various apparatus and also makes it more interesting for the onlookers inasmuch as more stunts are performed and a more varied programme is presented. The loss of the championship was somewhat atoned for, when the judges announced that "our" Reg. Delahay was the individual champion of the meet. Those who have seen "Reg" in action will not be surprised at this, for in him they have seen grace, skill and strength combined.

The McGill School of Physical Education supplied four entertaining events to an interesting programme, and from the generous applause accorded the performers by the appreciative onlookers it was quite evident that the graceful antics of the four gymnasts had been in no way overshadowed by the masculine contributions. The various exercises demonstrated by these able exponents must have been an enlightenment to more than one male student present, for in ten minutes these ladies did more exercise than does the average student in one week—and this without any evident sign of weariness or distress that such strenuous exertion usually produces.

The "Rhythmic Exercises on the March" produced by the second year, delighted the spectators with the grace and beauty of their movements, and when the more difficult and intricate movements of the March had been dexterously executed, the onlookers, composed largely of both sexes, roared their approval.

As its name signifies, the "Athletic Dance" by the first year, demanded considerable skill, strength and grace of movement, and coupled with the ravishing "Russian Dance" of the Second Year, which constituted the second event, it is not surprising that the spectators were charmed into wild enthusiasm and signified their appreciation by tumultuously clamouring for more.

The first year played a novel but entertaining "Game" which demanded great fleetness of foot, accuracy and skill in skipping.

Much credit is due those who had the training of the fair and charming performers whose exercises proved such a pleasing diversion.

The competition opened with the movements on the horizontal bar and it was evident from the outset that the contest was to be a keen one. Here Delahay went through a series of clever and well timed stunts and was easily the best man on the apparatus. The Toronto men did not seem to be quite at home and were outclassed by their Red and White opponents.

On the parallel bars the Blue and White gymnasts came back strong and their movements were characterized with remarkable alacrity and smoothness.

Again on the horse, the Torontonians demonstrated their superiority. Delahay from McGill and Parker of Toronto were outstanding.

The performers on the mats thrilled the spectators with their daring somersaults, flips and dives. McGill, by securing this event, reduced a 61 point lead by 55 points.

A large and appreciative crowd of onlookers packed the Gymnasium of Central Y and at eight o'clock there was nothing but standing room available. Nor were they disappointed for the whole performance made up a most enjoyable evening and the enthusiasm of the spectators never waned from start to finish.

Between events, Bobby Burland's orchestra supplied popular music which to no small degree accounted for the success of the evening's entertainment.

The points scored in the various events were as follows:

	U. of T.	McGill
Horizontal Bar	842	856
Parallel Bars	915	872
Side Horse	914	872
Mats	872	918

Total 3542 3517

Russell interprets his dream as indicating a suppressed desire for freedom from married life and Mabel as a suppressed desire for Stephen. Henrietta is effectually cured of her ideas and all end happily. Prof. Herbert Smith, as Stephen, Miss Lorna Kerr as Henrietta, and Mrs. Herbert Smith as Mabel were all very convincing.

In "McGill 1924" by William Carlless, were Prof. Slack as the Janitor, Prof. Woodhead as the Furnace Man, with Hecate's instincts who changed to this vocation from that of a popular novelist in order to appease his wife's conscience and make an honest living. Prof. Waugh as the absent-minded professor who feels keenly the disgrace of being branded as the only member of the staff who has never had a book published, and Mr. Bryan Priestman as the much mutilated student with a penchant for quoting Latin incorrectly. These all evoked much laughter.

"The Soul Call" by Stephen Leacock is described in the introduction as one of the modern piffle plays, which are invariably concerned with some such subject as a soul call, or a heart throb, or a stomach trouble, and which treat the problem of marriage. Marriage, which was once a sacrament, then a contract, an dowry a problem, used to form the happy ending of a play. Nowadays it is only the bad beginning. Alter reading the introduction Professor F. E. Lloyd introduced the characters of the play with great feeling. The two main characters are Lionel Derwent, "an ineffective young man" (Col. R. R. Thompson), and Helga Chown, (Miss Mabel King) with whom Lionel is in love. Helga is introduced as a woman whose soul has overgrown her body. She employs her time in analysing herself. Charles Chown (Mr. T. Hackett, K.C.) and Mabel Derwent (Mrs. C. A. Sutton) are commonplace people who enjoy such things as dog shows and the stock market. Lionel and Helga decide to poison them along with Meadows, the perfect, buller (Mr. J. A. Taylor) and Annette, the pretty stage maid (Miss Helen Kydd). Charles and Mabel elope for Havana before this design can be executed and the soulful couple are forced to the conclusion that it is the commonplace people who do things.

"The Sub-Contractors" by Stephen Leacock, an Ibsen Play, is a scream from the opening scene where Slump, a builder (Prof. C. H. Carruthers), talks with his wife, Vamp, (Miss Winifred Birkett), on the subject of spring, to the exceedingly moving conclusion where he eats dynamite and explodes, due to the effect of kissing Slump, the maid, (Mrs. J. G. Stewart), whose grandmother die of appendicitis and who consequently suffers from a Dump, a professor of thermodynamics, hereditary taint. Prof. Carlless as relates an amazing number of extraordinary complaints from which he suf-

GAS WORKS VISITED BY CHEM. CLUB

Dr. A. R. McLean in Charge

LARGE CROWD

Students See Coal Distilleries on Manufacturing Scale

Last Saturday afternoon the Chemical Club paid a very interesting visit to the Gas Works of the Montreal Light Heat and Power at Ville Emard. Dr. A. R. McLean accompanied the party. Mr. Oster was unable to be there so Mr. Amos the general foreman showed the party around.

The coal comes in by boat during the summer and is transported by cars which are pulled along a narrow gauge railway by continuous cable to which the cars are clamped. This railway system runs all through the plant.

The retorts are of the modern vertical continuous type built in units of eight. Each unit consists of a long top down which the coal passes. The rate of flow of coal down is regulated by a slowly rotating propeller at the bottom of the retort. The retort is heated by burning producer gas in a system of flues around the retort. The producer is located beside the retort so that the sensible heat as well as the heat of combustion is used to the best advantage. The secondary air to burn the producer gas is preheated by circulating it in flues around the hot coke at the bottom of the retort. The retort is fed from a hopper every 1½ hours. The coke is dumped, after being quenched, every 2 hours into cars, directly from the bottom of the retort.

The gas, the pressure of which is maintained in the retort, is atmospheric so that the air does not enter or does gas escape, is collected in a dry main in which the tar separates out. From the main the gas passes to primary condensers, cooled by water, where more tar is condensed. From the primary condensers it goes to the first gas pump which maintains a vacuum necessary to keep the pressure atmospheric in the retorts. The vacuum at the pump is 3 ins. of water. From the pump the gas goes to the secondary condensers where it is cooled to 95 degrees F. The ammonia is now removed by passing the gas through scrubbers. The ammonia water is pumped to a recovery plant where it is converted into Ammonium Sulphate. The tar is shipped to chemical plants where the tar products are recovered.

The gas is finally passed through a mixture of bog iron ore, shavings and lime which frees it from sulphur products so that no objectionable odour is noticed when the gas is burnt. It then passes through a meter to a gasometer where the excess gas is stored till the peak load comes on.

The party were lastly conducted through the excellent laboratory where all analyses are made.

The Modern.
A poet wrote his simple lines
Of sunsets, cottages and vines,
But people knew just what he meant
And so he couldn't earn a cent.
Then modern poets he tried to learn,
And wrote free verse, the while to yearn
For subtle meanings, words remote,
And striving—this is what he wrote:
I long for the serenity of lonely things
For I am attuned to the exquisite pain
Of vibrations, as the violin suffers
For its gift of expression.
All mute things suffer
And are misunderstood
In the great cosmic
Forces that crush.
No longer obvious is form
His verses took the world by storm
And now—with long poetic hair,
You see him fated everywhere.

Miss Birkett's dancing and the music supplied by Miss Anna Dale and Miss Betty Cameron in this play are very pleasing.

The entertainment closed with a brilliant "Russian Drama" by Stephen Leacock. This was acted in dumb show and read by Prof. Lloyd. The cast of this play was as follows:—

Nikolai Nitoscha . . . Miss Mary Fry.
Petroff . . . Major D. Stuart Forbes.
and . . . Russian officers

Dimitri Mr. J. A. Taylor.
A moujik Mr. J. Richardson Donald
A sentinel Mr. A. S. Noad.
Basilisk Dr. E. S. Bieler
Tartar soldiers . . . Col. R. R. Thompson

Prof. C. H. Carruthers
The funds derived from Diminutive Dramas are to help in the Canadian University Women's Federation Scholarship, the hospital library, the University Settlement, and the maintenance of Crosby Hall in London.

Tickets for the second performance may be obtained from the Secretary of the Royal Victoria College, the McGill Library, Miss May Ilder, 863 University St., Plateau 4498, and Miss Mildred Robertson, 388 Lansdowne Ave., West, 0351.

AN IMPROVED TICKET SALE INAUGURATED

Early Purchasers Offered Reduced Rates

PRICE 75c. AND $1

Red and White Revue to be Hit of Season

Tickets for the Red and White Revue will go on sale at the Union tomorrow. The committee under G. J. Glasco has decided to issue tickets under a new system. Reduced rates will be offered to undergraduates who buy their paste-boards from Class Representatives before Saturday. On handing these in at the Union or at the St. Denis box office they will receive in return a ticket entitling them to a seat at the greatest show McGill has ever attempted. Those failing to buy exchange tickets before Saturday will lose the advantages of the lower prices. The Union box-office and the St. Denis will open simultaneously tomorrow; there will be an equal number of good tickets at both booths. Undergrads are advised to procure seats as early as possible, for, judging from the amount of interest taken both outside and inside the college tickets will be at a premium.

The names of the various class representatives and the time that the Box-Office will be opened will be published to-morrow. The price or admission for those in possession of exchange tickets will be 75c and 50c, the regular prices will be 75c and $1.00. Only a limited number of exchange tickets will be issued so no student is entitled to more than four. Judging by the number of undergrads who have signified their intention of attending it is doubtful whether many students will be able to draw their quota of tickets.

There is no doubt that this year will surpass all previous records. Saturday rehearsal brought out some of the best skits seen in many years. Under the able guidance of Abe Skelly the Show is taking form. J. S. L. Brown, the property man was on the job listing all the various articles needed by the different acts.

M. S. P. E. boasts of the best chorus seen in Montreal for many years there act is something to look forward to. R. V. C. portrays the girls of the past. Rumour has it that the palaeolithic age is not to be omitted. Meds. have some very excellent songs not to mention an instructive skit. Science is a roar from beginning to end. The engineers will be on the map this year. Law has a tale of the north, a harrowing tale that rends the heart strings, a story to make strong men weep, yet an entertaining play. Last but not least comes Commerce in their attempt to portray Shakespeare so far is crowned with success. It bids fair to rival Sir Martin Harvey's celebrated rendering of our greatest dramatist. It is the serious note in the Revue. Many have expressed the opinion that this university night should be of a more serious nature hence Commerce's attempt.

Arts did not have their rehearsal with the other acts on Saturday but rehearsed behind closed doors in the Arts building. The Arts act is reported to be the greatest Mystery story that has ever been portrayed upon the legitimate.

RESULTS OF RIFLE SHOOTING CONTEST
Oxford, Yale and McGill in Triangular Match

The following is a list of the scores made by the McGill Rifle Team in the Yale-Oxford-McGill triangular match held on Saturday afternoon:

Appli-	Station	Rapid	T1
W. H. Moore	95	91	186
H. A. DeCelle	92	93	185
F. D. Mooney	96	89	185
S. B. Nudler	96	89	185
K. Reid	92	93	185

Total Team score 926

The results of the Oxford and Yale teams have not yet been received.

A good attendance is expected at the next two C.I.R.A. matches. The McGill team stands an excellent chance of winning this year's cup, being now a few points ahead of the R.M.C. team and with some good shooting in the next matches should stand a fair chance of coming out on top.

The first of these will take place on Tuesday evening at the Grenadier Guards range. All those who have previously shot in the C.I.R.A. 303 competitions are requested to meet at the Q.M. stores, 746 University St., at 7:00 p.m.

THE THREE NUTS

as announced in the "Daily" a short time ago. The first letter on the vast pile of correspondence was an inquiry as to who the Nuts are, and the reason of their disappearance.

The Three Nuts are a group of three creatures of limited intelligence who are foolish enough to conduct a consolatory and advisory column for the benefit of heartbroken or worried undergrads who have paid for the "Daily." As they are in Commerce, they are specially fitted by nature for their arduous task. Of the three, the dominant Nut is exceptionally dull. He is a man with one eye named Andrew (the name of the other is Alphonse but that does not matter). The two remaining Nuts (there are only three altogether) are both tea-hounds and lounge-lizards. In this they excel, as their brain power is very limited.

The reason for their disappearance was that a band of humane Arts students became convinced that the Three had suffered long enough. This group, which deserves the gratitude of all McGill, captured every one of the Three (there were only three to catch) and attempted to put the prisoners out of pain by gently tapping their heads with soft pieces of blotting paper. This merciful method seemed successful as the imbeciles weak haterers apparently broke under the impact. Their bodies were reverently laid in a dismal corner of the Arts Building where they would have remained forever, had it not been for "Bill" Gentleman's appetite. Bill was hungry, and remembered that he had placed a piece of cheese in a mouse-trap in the cellar just before the War. Hoping that the cheese might still be fresh Bill searched diligently. He had just become hot on the trail (for it was a bit stale) when he heard a moan. He rushed in, thinking a mouse had found his cheese, and saw the Nuts' bodies in a corner. Bill has had much experience lately in reviving men with battered heads and in no long time the four were feasting on the cheese, which lay nearby. On Bill's advice, the story about Saville was given to the Press, and had it not being for the Nuts' repentance of their cruel trick, the truth would never have been known.

BIG SMOKER TO PRECEDE ELECTIONS.
gets in irrespective of his executive ability.
Another matter of interest will be the question of election of the President of the Literary and Debating Society, the Canadian Club and the Music Club and the cheer leaders being held under the jurisdiction of the Students' Council. Although these societies are under the Students' Council the students at large do not elect the executives. Meetings of these societies are held for purposes of electing their executives but usually only a small number of men turn out. It is hoped that these offices will be filled by ballot of the whole student body.

As voting day on Wednesday approaches, interest in the forthcoming elections for the offices of President of the Students' Council, and of President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Union House Committee, is becoming more manifest. Some of the candidates have already begun their campaigns by stumping their constituents among the various years. That all the positions will be contested will add zest to the proceedings. Most of the nominees have already attained some degree of executive prominence. The various candidates will be given a few minutes each to present their platforms.

The cafeteria will be open as usual to accommodate men desirous of having late supper and free smokes will be distributed.

This selection has been arranged for baritone solo and male voice chorus with piano accompaniment. The solo parts will be taken by Mr. Harold Eustace Key, the director of the Club.

"Songs of the Fleet" are written in a bright and cheerful mood, depicting a great fleet departing in all its majesty, with fearless crews whose hearts are full of pride and purpose. There are five songs in all.

(a) Sailing at Dawn.
(2) The Song of the Sea "Wester."
(3) The Middle Watch
(4) The Little Admiral
(5) Farewell.

The programme includes several delightful humorous songs such as Edin McLones Aberdeen, which is supposed to be sung with a certain "Scottish humor," also Peter the Cat is a wonderfully effective number in lighter vein. The other choruses to be sung are all of the part song variety, being largely arrangements of folk tunes.

It is requested that all those attending the concert should come on time in order that the programme may be given without interruption.
